

Sooner or Later

Louise Jordan

1

Soo - ner or la - ter if you're 7

lu - cky change will come Just a li - ttle more e - qua - li - ty for the war work that you've done It's in - de - fen - sible It's i - llo - gi - cal but one day you might just prove that you de - serve a li - ttle more e - qua - li - ty de - spite your wo - man - hood You de -

12

17

22

- serve a li - ttle more e - qua - li - ty de - spite your wo - man - hood.

Sooner or later, you can pray for change to come
If you vacate your jobs and wait inside your homes after the war is won
It's unfavourable, undesirable
But one day you can hope to prove
You deserve a little more equality, despite your womanhood
You deserve a little more equality, despite your womanhood

Sooner or later keep trying and change might come
If you replace the nation's lost army and show that your homes are well run
It's unpalatable, unjustifiable
But it's up to you to prove
You deserve a little more equality, despite your womanhood
You deserve a little more equality, despite your womanhood

Sooner or later, do what you're told and change may come There's more women left than men so the vote's only open to some There's no logic, no sense, no justice –still
You must accept this imperfect scheme
You might deserve a little more equality if it weren't for your womanhood
You might deserve a little more equality if it weren't for your womanhood

In 1918, for some women change had come
In 1918, some expected more change to come They'd fought, they'd proved, they'd suffered
They'd justified equality
But women under 30 still waited for equality
But women under 30 still waited for equality

It's 2018, why are we waiting for change to come
It's 2018, let's stop waiting for change to come
We've got to fight, make it happen, demand equality
Although the vote's now equal we're still waiting for equality
One hundred years, let's make change happen –no more waiting for equality

www.parliament.uk/whatdifference

www.louisejordan.co.uk